'Blacksmith'opens

The company originally set up by CANFA to own and operate a chain of pubs opened its second Iondon pub last month. "The Village Blacksmith", in Hi llreach, woolwich, SPIS, was a former Courage house which CANFA investments acquired last year. After extensive renovations and the building of an extension to the bar space, the jub re-opened on June 12th

The pub has a "local" atmosphere which we hope will not be lost to the trendy market which all too often infests good Real Ale pubs in the Lapital. Although the prices are a bit on the high side, the beer is tein, served in good condition. At the time of writing the brews on tap were Young's Special and Ordinary Bitters, Shepherd Neame Bitter, and Courage Directors' Bitter (of which there is a desperate shortage in the area). Opening, the pub, CALRAIL Executive Director Chris Hutt said that the com, any hiped to add a Mild to the range of brews sold, and would also be stocking the new beer from Simon's Tower Bridge Brever; when that came on stream in the next couple of months.

LONDON DRINKER is published by the London Branches of CANRA, the Campaign for Real Ale Ltd.
