EDITORIAL OR WHAT IS REAL ALE?

The actual definition of a real ales is relatively straightforward, but often misunderstood and, unfortunately, often blatantly flouted.

A real ale is a beer that is produced from natural ingredients, usually malted barley, hops and water, then fermented with yeast and matured in casks. Casks are then delivered to the pubs where the beer continued to mature. Before serving, the casks must be allowed to stand in the pub cellar for anything from a few hours to a couple of days to allow the beer to settle before being served. Real ale is served usually by the traditional hand pump, but can be served from a tap directly from the cask (known as gravity dispense), or by an electric pump. Simple isn't it? Or is it? Unfortunately, several things can be done to a real ale that make it no longer "real": Usually, as beer is served, the volume left is filled up with air as the cask is basically open to the cellar whilst beer is being served. Unfortunately this gives the product somewhat of a limited shelf life once the cask has been tapped as the air entering the cask will tend to oxidise the contents and the beer will "go off". This is not a problem if the beer is being sold at a reasonable rate, as it will sell out long before any significant oxidation has taken place. Some publicans, however, connect the beer up to a carbon dioxide (CO2) cylinders such that the beer is not replaced by air, but CO2 gas. This greatly slows down the oxidation process, but the gas pressure above suppresses the beers' own natural CO2 productions, often resulting in an over gassy pint that tastes very "tinny" due to the extra amount of CO2 dissolved in it. This is no longer "Real Ale". Another thing to watch out for is what is termed "bright" beer. There is significant concern that some brewers are putting so little yeast into casks that little conditioning takes place in the cast at all. This again is not true real ale and the loss of taste in the beer should confirm this. It is at this point that mention needs to be made of what are called keg beers. These start life in the same way as real ales, but before they are put into "kegs" they are pasteurised and filtered. They a re then sealed in keg containers and delivered to the bar by means of CO2 gas pressure. Keg beer is a dead product. It does not mature in the keg and often tastes weak, insipid and fizzy. There is a new form of keg beer that has arrived on the scene. This is the so-called "nitro-keg" beer. It is essentially the same as ordinary keg products, but is brought to the bar by a mixture of nitrogen and CO₂ gas. This produces the cascading foam affect that gives the false impression of a smooth creamy pint. Nitro-keg beers such as Caffreys and Kilkenny are not real ales, they are purely keg beers that are served in a different manner.

Fuller's Summer Ale has an abv of 3.9% and is available from June to September at the majority of Fuller's houses at around £1.65 per pint.

With the weather as it is, it may not seem like summer, but Fuller's brewing team has decided that it most certainly is! From 3rd June to 30th August you can tantalize those taste buds with Fuller's Summer Ale, the Brewery's light, golden 3.9% summer seasonal offering. Try a pint, and remember, one swallow doesn't make a summer, so best have two, or three or ...!

IDLE MOMENTS

Right. I hope you're ready – you're going to have to read this quickly because I haven't got much time. It's all right for you but I never seem to get any idle moments myself. Anyway, I haven't got time to gripe so let's get straight on with last month's number puzzle answers:

- 1. 16 Players in a Scrum in Rugby Union
- Classic Flat Races are Held at Newmarket
- 3. 21 is the Minimum Age for a Member of Parliament
- 4. 10 Pound Notes have Charles Dickens on the Back
- 5. 43 Chief Constables in England and Wales
- 6. I Pound is the Price of a Ticket for the National Lottery
- 7. 55 Broadway is the Address of London Transport
- 8. 3 of Henry the Eighth's Children Sat on the English Throne
- 9. 1690 Battle of the Boyne
- 10. 14 is the Isotope of Carbon Used in Carbon Dating

And to keep the momentum going, here are this month's number puzzles:

- 1. 8 AU make up the IL
- 2. 95 T of ML (N to the CD in W)
- 3. 2 B of the OT are N after W
- 4. 7 P are the M you can GA with a FS in S
- 5.4 B in a G of C
- 6. 2 Y is the ML of a SS
- 7.969 A of M
- 8. 63 C in the BA
- 9. 18 N of the A (to the AC) that IP
- 10. 151 N to D to R a F on BT

Now, how's the time going? Okay, I think I can squeeze in the brewery anagrams; you'll have to be quick though. Here's last month's answers. Don't mull over them, just read them and get on with this month's.

- 1. GET COAT COTTAGE
- 2. WINTERYGOTH

TEIGNWORTHY

- 3. HIP BOSS BISHOPS
- 4. AH, HAG RUSHES

SARAH HUGHES

RUM ODE MORDUE

And here, without further ceremony, they are:

A LUNCH ROBE

- 2. HARD OWLS
- 3. MAN LOT
- 4. AH! THERE
- 5. YES... NO... I CHUNDER

And next, for all you devotees (if such a thing can exist) of underground stations (I suppose that should be Underground Stations) it's time for the answers to last month's cryptic ones:

- 1. The girls on the eastbound route are the "County Set" Essex Road
- 2. A widely dedicated church All Saints
- 3. Little house from the mountains; any gnomes here? Swiss Cottage
- 4. Old queen Victoria
- 5. They cross the river in armour –Knightsbridge
- 6. Partitioned island Cyprus
- 7. Old queen's husband Prince Regent
- 8. Little church looks very clean Whitechapel
- 9. The trees in these gardens were diseased Elm Park
- 10. Dirty slippery slope Mudchute

Now you might have realised that Underground stations are something of a fixed asset; like we don't get that many new ones and with East and West this, that and the other we'll be in danger of running out of usable ones before the Jubilee Line Extension gets finished. For this reason I've decided to ration them slightly and just let you have five a month from now on. All right, who cheered? All of you, was it?

- 1. Raised water's edge
- 2. Country seat in New England
- 3. Motor car
- 4. Pride of the North Circular Road Relegation League
- I came to see the games but there was an exhibition

I was trying to think of something other than football grounds and people's real names for 5BY4 this month and, looking through my copy of British Hit Singles, it struck me that a number of singers have the same forename. In the light of this I've called this month's "Billy Boy"; all you have to do is match the Billys with their hits (They were all in the Top Ten). Answers as usual at the end.

1. Uptown Girl

- 2. D.I.V.O.R.C.E.
- 3. No-One but You
- 4. She's Leaving Home
- 5. Love Really Hurts Without You
- 6. Halfway to Paradise
- 7. I Can Help
- 8. White Wedding
- 9. Achy Breaky Heart
- 10. King of the Cops
- A. Billy Bragg
- B. Billy Ray Cyrus
- C. Billy Ocean
- D. Billy Connolly
- E. Billy Fury
- F. Billy Swan
- G. Billy Idol
- H. Billy Eckstine
- I. Billy Joel
- J. Billy Howard

And lastly we come to Trivial Knowledge (have we got time? Yes I think so just as long as you get on with it. No, you haven't got time to get another pint in; I've got a deadline to meet). Here are last month's answers. They won't mean a thing if you didn't read last month's questions:

- 1. Tahiti
- 2. Eight
- 3. Loch Lomond
- 4. None
- 5. Tessa Sanderson
- 6. Miss Marple
- 7. She was mortal
- Pegasus, the winged horse and the warrior, Chrysaor. Both appeared fully grown.
- 9. The Fylde
- 10. Epsom Salts

And here is the justification for next month's last month's answers:

- Buddy Holly had a total of six top ten hits in the UK but only one number one. Which was it?
- 2. Still thinking about Buddy Holly, what happened to Cindy Lou?
- 3. What "monument to secrecy" was designed by Terry Farrell?
- 4. As we all know the first postage stamp, the Penny Black, was introduced on 6th May 1840, but how long did it last before it was replaced by the Penny Red?
- 5. There are five classic races in the flat season. Over how many race courses are they run?

- 6. Instituted in 1715 and held on the Thames, what is the oldest sporting event in Britain?
- 7. On Friday 14th June a mail coach left London for Norwich to commemorate the anniversary of the last scheduled mail coach to leaveLondon. How many years was the anniversary remembering?
- 8. Who replaced Paul Jones as the lead singer with Manfred Mann when he went solo?
- 9. And talking of singing Joneses, what is the full name of Tom Jones?
- 10. What town is famous for its mile long straight stretch of the River Thames?

And finally, here is the solution to this month's 5BY4:

1–I, 2–D, 3–H, 4–A, 5–C, 6–E, 7–F, 8–G, 9–B, 10–J.

Phew, I'm knackered. See you next time, unless you see me coming first.

DESERT ISLAND BEERS

Greetings from way out (South) West. I have great pleasure in enclosing my eight definitive "Desert Island Beers" and sincerely hope that they find their way on to the pages of the inestimable "London Drinker". Here's hoping.

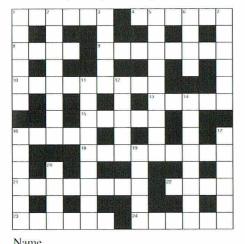

- 1 Fuller's London Pride: Unique hop and malt combination.
- 2 Timothy Taylor Landlord: Killer hops with a fruity edge.
- 3 Younger's Number 3: Smooth malt and Auld Reekie's finest!
- 4 Nethergate Old Growler: Sublime porter in a glass of its own.
- 5 Hopback Mild: Exquisite and unsurpassed.
- 6 Coach House Auld Sleekit: A lovely winter toes-tingler.
- 7 Morland Old Speckled Hen: Strength and smoothness is a wicked combination!
- 8 Greene King IPA: Suffolk's other major beer!

Well, there we have it. It was a very difficult to whittle them down and there were many other strong contenders, but I felt that this was as near definitive as I could get.

HIGH SUMMER BITTER WITH A 4.6 ABV

McMullen recently announced High Summer Bitter, the tenth McMullen Special Reserve limited edition seasonal ale in the series.

First launched in the spring of 1993, the Special Reserve series set a standard now widely emulated in the brewing industry, and last year won for Production Director and Head Brewer Tony Skipper, the title, UK Brewer of the Year.

Like all the previous ales in the series, High Summer Bitter has been created by Tony Skipper to match his acclaimed Special Reserve standards and catch the mood of the season

For High Summer Bitter, he set out to produce a beer that delivered the high quality and strength that has become a feature of the Special Reserve range with the lightness and freshness required for a cooling summer brew.

First, he combined the finest malted barley with McMullen's natural well water and wholeleaf Golding aroma hops. Then, he added McMullen's own special ale yeast and let the brew ferment gently for seven days in the Hertford Brewery's famous copper-lined oak vats to an ABV of 4.6 per cent.

"I was delighted with the reception given to Fine Summer Bitter, the second of the Special Reserve series, in 1993," said Tony Skipper, "so I resolved this year to produce another bitter that drinkers would find smooth and refreshing in the hot days of summer."

THE TAX THAT HURTS

Since 1979 duty and VAT on beer has risen by 53 per cent in real terms, and beer consumption has fallen by 28 per cent. Meanwhile wholesale beer prices are declining in real terms.

For every 36 gallon barrel, a brewer typically makes about £10 profit. The Chancellor takes £70 in duty alone.

The excessive taxation of beer:

- discriminates against weaker community pubs;
- discriminates against the less well off who drink more beer that those with higher incomes;
- induces tax avoiding cross border shopping;
- is an incentive for smuggling and crime;
- severely distorts competition in favour of continental producers and retailers;
- exports jobs, profits and investment to the Continent;
- damages an industry which generates 900,000 jobs.

Since 1979 there have been 13 excise duty increases forcing up the price of beer and making the pub a less attractive choice.

OBITUARY KERRY BUTLER – PRIDE OF SPITALFIELDS E1 TWO TRIBUTES

The East London & City Branch are saddened to learn of the death of Kerry Butler of the Pride of Spitalfields in Whitechapel, I first met Kerry in the early days of the Pub, Club & Leisure Show where CAMRA had a presence. What did I know about the Romford Arms in Heneage Street he asked me. Other than it was a small Ind Coope pub that used to sell real ale (that is how it appeared in our 1983 guide), not a lot I replied. A few years later every beer lover knew about the pub when it appeared in the 1988 Good Beer Guide with its new name. Kerry had been struggling with cancer for some years vet whenever I visited the pub he always acknowledged all of his customers. Our sympathies are extended to his family. He will be missed by his friends and customers.

IN 200 YEARS WE'VE NEVER SOLD OUT.

Since 1799 the name Greene King has been synonymous with fine ales. Over all those years, we've fiercely defended our independence and our brewing traditions. It means we've been able to consistently produce some of the finest ales in the country. We haven't sold out. But our beers often do.

EIGHT FAVOURITE BEERS

HOP BACK GFB: Not the bitterest of beers but still with a fine hoppy flavour. Very well balanced, a perfect session beer.

HOP BACK ENTIRE STOUT: First tried this in Salisbury at the brewery's five year anniversary celebrations. Excellent dry and flavoursome. Makes you wonder how Guinness has been getting away with it all these years.

ADNAMS EXTRA: Worth seeking out! Excellent bitter beer, fine flavour of hops.

WOODFORDE'S WHERRY: Simply superb flagnetic balance of hops and malt, wonderful aroma too.

BATEMANS MILD: Who said Mild was bland? First had this in Norwich overlooking the River Weasum and did not want to leave. Bags of flavour and with a "creamy" taste which owes more to the brewers art than a marketing man's gimmick.

FREEMINER BITTER: First had this at Battersea '96 and subsequently at the brewery. Very well balanced with fine hop flavour.

MACLAY 70: A well deserved inclusion from north of the border, still with a prominently malty taste but with a good balance of hops. I always drink this in the Balbity Bewsters in Glasgow, a positive oasis in a sea of McEwans Export.

OTTER BITTER: An excellent session bitter, a fruity taste which is prevented from being too drying by a good balance of hops. Truely refreshing, like Maclay uses its own water and I think it shows. An excellent beer from the Devon micro.

CAMRA RESPONDS TO 'SPRING INNS' SALES

CAMRA has called for Spring Inns to allow leasees to buy their own pubs.

Spring Inns has just been set up to buy 1400 pubs from Inntrepeneur. The pubs remain tied to Inntrepeneur's supplier, Scottish Courage, and the intention is for the pubs to be sold on to one or more third parties.

CAMRA described this as "Yet another cynical shuffling of the pack - though with Inntrepeneur's record, many tenants may feel any other owner might be an improvement."

"This is the second or third change of ownership for some of these pubs," said CAMRA Campaigns Manager Stephen Cox. "There is constant uncertainty. It is time to break this constant turmoil, by letting tenants buy their own pubs, and decide their own future."

Tenants of Spring Inns retain their guest beer rights but may lose them if sold to a third party.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

Dear Editors.

Fuller's current pub closure policy is not new in our own, West Middlesex, area; the Pear Tree in Hillingdon was demolished not too long ago to make way for flats and the Rossetti in St. Johns Wood met a similar fate. Coupled with the recent furore over their plans for the Rose & Crown in Ealing, I consider that Fullers are in serious danger of losing their way, and with it their bedrock CAMRA support. All of the closures affected pubs with significant redevelopment potential and the intended brasserie conversion of a locals' pub (now thankfully dropped) just defied belief.

I, for one, will sorely miss the Queen Victoria and the Rossetti (surely one of the most unique pubs in its time) and hope that the recent setback at the Rose & Crown will be the end of it. I suspect the opposite to be true!

Perhaps Fullers could be persuaded to find a suitable, new, site on which to recreate the Rossetti.

Yours sincerely,

Paul Dabrowski, Norwood Green

Dear Editors.

We have recently received a letter from Shepherd Neame threatening imminent court proceedings for what they claim is a breach of trademark relating to their product "Bishops Finger" and the name of our brewery "Bishops Brewery".

The main part of the letter, which we have been advised not to reproduce, claims that an interlocutory injunction would be sought until the matter was concluded by the court, coupled with a suggested cost of £10,000 for both parties.

Also a guarantee was needed that the name "Bishops" would be reduced in size and ultimately phased out over a period of time. This was of course unreasonable. After all the brewery was founded back in 1993 by Andrew Bishop, who surely has rights to his own surname, his parents unaware of the perils they placed their son in when forming their relationship!

Besides, does this attitude extend to others who use the name "Bishops", not as part of their trading name but refer to it directly in their own products.... "Bishops Tipple", "Bishops Farewell" and the too close for comfort "Bishops Toe" which I understand was a one-off brew but is much closer to a trademark infringement than our own company's name.

I rang Gibbs Mew to see if they too had received such warnings on the use of the name - surprisingly they had not. Perhaps there is one rule for one brewery and one for another (depending on how small they are!) We received another letter from Shepherd Neame, after supplying them with promotional products from our brewery to clear up the matter and were told that they were relieved to find no confusion with their product after digesting the information thoroughly, but still seeking an assurance that the name would not be abbreviated to "Bishops". This is something we are unwilling to give in the light that there was no trademark infringement.

Our products are being judged on their own merits and that is exactly how we seek success and its rewards, not by cashing in on any other product or name.

We feel it unreasonable when, without researching the matter thoroughly, letters are issued; muscles are flexed and large sums of

FROM OUR ARCHIVES

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO the pink covered 20 page July '81 edition featured the Barley Mow, Royal Hill, Greenwich on the front cover. Inside it was announced that the Phoenix Brewery at Wateringbury, Kent was to be closed by Whitbread, that Taylor Walker was continuing to have problems with beer quality, and Keith Showering, Chief Executive and Chairman of Allied Brewery had a low opinion of CAMRA and had accused the Campaign of being a Marxist plot.

Other pub and brewery news included the acquisition by Shepherd Neame of the Railway Tavern, N16, and the Lytton Arms N1 from Charringtons, the reopening of the Cunningham, New Addington after refurbishment and a new home brew pub had opened in the Duke of Bridgewater N1.

Laurie Bishop described various facets of the drinking scene in the capital in an article entitled Capital Beer, whilst Howard Gladwin had penned an article covering drinking in Zambia. On the financial side, CAMRA membership was £5 and beer was approx 47 pence per pint. Oh for the good old days!

TEN YEARS AGO the July 86 edition pictured the Ship and Shovel, WC2 on the front cover of the 32 page edition. Martin Smith's editorial comment on short measures and one of the letters dealt with overcharging for non-alcoholic drinks (nothing changes does it? - Ed). There were illustrated crawls of Ripon and Chislehurst, and P Roberts of Upminster described various tours of the pubs of a variety of brewers on non passport basis.

An article by "The Key Man" (I will continue to respect his anonymity) covered a variety of subjects including prices, pub rents, renovations and the inexperience of so many of new entrants into the licensed trade; whilst Dipsy was dispensing his own brand of advice to readers.

FIVE YEARS AGO a chocolate-brown July 91 edition featured the Dog and Bull in Croydon, a Youngs house. The editorial was a joint effort by editor Chris Cobbold and "Raincout" and covered various aspects of pubs as diverse as exclusion from the Good Beer Guide, pub opening times and absence of pump chips to indicate available beers. In the letters column was a letter from a publican, whose name and address was not published for obvious reasons, confirming the comments made in the May editorial regarding unacceptable practices such as recycling drip tray overflows and other excess beer back into the cask.

There were articles advertising the forthcoming Great British Beer Festival at Docklands and the newly issued 8th Essex Beer Guide as well as comments from CAMAL and a 15 mile pub crawl through Brakspear country by Denys Vernall starting at Shiplake and ending in Henley itself.

Well, that ends this month's nostalgia trip. It is surprising how quickly the month passes; no sooner do I seem to have meandered through my back numbers to research this article and exercise my archivist's pen than it is time to journey back again for the next month. So until then, Farewell.

Dear Editors

Further to the comments made by Tom Vickers in the May edition and to my earlier points regarding Wetherspoon's; yes, I concur with the points of Mr. Vickers' letter. Believe it on not, I am actually a fan of what Tim Martin is doing and I too value Tim's ideas as being useful to the real ale cause. I make a point of drinking the weekly guest ales that are on sale and also enjoy the beer fests that the chain puts on.

In my previous letter I was merely making a few pertinent points on how Wetherspoon's do what they do and this was not meant as any slight on what Mr. Martin is attempting to do. If there is one small criticism I have, it is this; a Wetherspoon's customer can always count on clean loos, good cheap(ish) ale and smart decor and that, but ultimately visiting Wetherspoon outlets is pointless as they all look identical! I've been to a few around my area and I enjoy my visits, but apart from the monochrome pictures on the walls (an attempt at "local character"?), there is little to set each place apart from the others in the chain. I can buy a Big Mac in the McDonald's in Manchester and an identical one in Moscow like I can buy a pint of Theakston's XB in Wimbledon and another in Woking and where I buy the XB, like the Big Mac, will look just the same.

We in CAMRA are, quite rightly, keen to support pubs with their own character each serving their own clientele, but Wetherspoon's are in danger of being seen as the McDonalds of the ale world; safe, bland and with little character of their own. If only Tim Martin could try to make the places seem a little bit more individual and not the sometimes vast, impersonal (but always clean) barns that seem to be his raison d'etre now

Wimbledon's Wibbas Down Inn, the company's second largest, is a nice place but it's like drinking in an aircraft hanger and the one in Manchester covers three floors of an old department store! I have been to smaller

Wetherspoon outlets, but none of them have much character either. Maybe the shopfitters just duplicate the plans of the last place they did

I think we have to be vigilant that the traditional British boozer is not being used by large powerful businesses as just one of many cost effective, efficient marketing "concepts". Even a place that is just an ordinary pub with no pretensions is now seen as "a themed house", its theme being that it is "traditional"! It seems that you can't just run a pub - you have to be a concept! We should be wary of the marketing of a superficial nostalgia as "tradition", as it seems it is dead easy for someone to bung up a few old horse brasses, a couple of period adverts (you know the sort) and imply that it is genuinely old! That's a shame. Do we really want bland, characterless barns as the new majority reality of pub drinking? I think not and I support true diversity - good luck to Tim Martin and Co, but power to the independent solo free house and any other genuine place as well.

With some qualification, I too am over the (JJ) Moon that Tim is as successful as he is, but let's keep it in perspective.

Yours sincerely,

Al Ferrier, New Malden.

PS. I was sorry to see the Horse & Groom (Waldegrave Road, Teddington) boarded up. There was nothing in the local Informer despite it being just across the road from their office! It may have been dowdy and a bit run down, but it must have had its regulars like everywhere else. Diversity and choice takes another knock. By the way, the Earl Beatty, Motspur Park recently closed for a major re-fit and was due to open on 10th June - as a S&N "Steak & Ale" themed house! I can hardly wait...

Editor's Comment:

I seem to remember doing an editorial along these lines over a year ago. Obviously I agree with your sentiments that Wetherspoon's are not the sort of pubs that you would want to do a passport scheme on. However, this is NOT in my opinion their purpose in life; the idea is that you will find one wherever you are, not that you should have to go on a pilgrimage to find one.

With regard to the corporate image, I think you place too much emphasis on the "shopfitter's last job". The idea is that they should look the same even if every one is

BREWING A TASTE OF HISTORY

Since the early Egyptians began brewing, there have been many different ales, and along with them, the enthusiasm for beer has grown.

So, when Marston's Head Brewer prepares to produce new brews he certainly has a few years to look back on for inspiration. Paul Bayley, Marston's Head Brewer has been brewing beer with the company for 30 years, and it is his skills that develop the popular ales that have become available through the Head Brewer's Choice ranges of beers.

Monks Habit, Oyster Stout, Single Malt, Regimental Ale, Wood Street Bitter and Burton Strong Pale Ale are to name but a few of the diverse range of ales that have achieved almost cult following with beer drinkers nationally.

So how does the company begin to develop a new beer? Paul and his team usually begin with a beer style in mind, perhaps something that as a company they haven't done before, or maybe a style totally new to the market place. They look whether it will be a dark or light brew, strong or weak, and then how the ale will fit into the range that has already been agreed. When it comes to naming the brew they try to link the name to the beer styles history, ingredients or method of brewing.

The Head Brewer's Choice range consists of a diversity of styles and the ales are, as Paul puts it "different, but recognisably Marston's like." The team have always tried not to make the beers too quirky, aiming to brew an ale that the discerning beer drinker will appreciate.

Paul is confident enough to say that due to his team's experience and knowledge, they tend to get things right first time most of the time, however occasionally tastes have been known to change from what was expected during development, so waiting for the end result of each brew is always exciting.

This year's tasting and testing by the team has resulted in 17 special beers being available from May up until the New Year. Kicking off with Ditchingham, drinkers can look forward to tasting amongst others, Little Lambswick, Nut Brown, Burton Union Bottom Taps and a Summer Wheat Beer.

Whether you are a serious been connoisseur or whether you try them for fun, be sure not to miss out on any of the brews as you could be missing out on a piece of brewing history.

CAMRA WELCOMES RATES RELIEF FOR VILLAGE PUBS

CAMRA, recently welcomed Government proposals which could cut business rates on village pubs by up to 100 per cent.

"Pubs are an important part of our communities. Pubs provide meeting places and support a network of social activity, such as charitable fund raising. They are much more than just beer shops," said CAMRA Campaigns Manager Stephen Cox. "With a thousand pubs closing last year, this support is timely."

"We are disappointed that the scheme will be discretionary – not all local authorities will have to implement it. We want the relief to apply to all authorities and to be introduced in Scotland."

"We are also concerned that the contribution of the ordinary town pub is not recognised. There are plenty of first class community pubs that are not in rural areas, equally worthy of support."

"CAMRA will continue to press for the most important tax cut of all – a 50 per cent reduction in British beer duty. That would revive the pub trade, eliminate the vast cross border trade in beer, and safeguard British jobs."

- 1 The Department of the Environment propose rate relief for village shops in communities with less than 3,000 people. They are consulting to extend this, on a discretionary basis, to other businesses below a certain rateable value such as pubs.
- 2 The licensed trade paid £2.4 billion in beer duty and £11 billion in all taxes in 1995. CAMRA argues that the industry is massively over-taxed.

CAMRA WELCOMES PUB HOURS

CAMRA, recently welcomed Government proposals for more flexible pub licensing. The Home Office proposes an extra hour of trading on Friday and Saturday evenings.

"This is a vey modest reform, which will bring licensing hours closer in touch with reality." said CAMRA Campaigns Manager Stephen Cox. "Pub hours need to be based on how people live and work now, not fifty years ago."

"Previous deregulation has not increased the amount people drink or the degree of disorder. In fact this should be part of a strategy to encourage sensible and adult approaches to drinking."

The Home Office proposes an additional hour on Friday and Saturday evenings – and offers three different means of achieving this.

CAMRA agrees that the concerns of residents re-noise and nuisance must be met. The proposals are not a free-for-all.

"We favour the option which allows 11.00pm closing to be enforced where there is genuine cause for complaint. This will be a powerful weapon in the hands of residents and magistrates."

"Other options include a large degree of local autonomy. It is inevitable that under such a system we will see blanket bans in one district and a liberal policy in the next – we"Il see people commuting across district boundaries in search of late night pubs!"

EAST END NEWS

The name change game continues. In EC1, the Harrow, which has been closed for some time has re-opened and been re-named Compton's Bar and Bistro and if their menu is correct sell London Pride at 220p while further south the Blue Posts has become the latest cafe style bar called Jacomo's. They are advertising salsa one night in the week. Isn't that the light wood they make model airplanes out of? The thought of hoards of people turning up clutching their Airfix glue and elastic bands and plastic propellers is enough to make the mind boggle. The bar/bistro/brassiere seems to be quite popular in this area. A Dome has opened at 61 Charterhouse Street whilst in nearby St John Street at number 38/4 is the Vic Naylor Bar & Grill, at 26 is the Bakery Bar selling Youngs Bitter and Special if the menu is to be believed and at 20 is the Longroom Restaurant & Bar which is there the Adnams Brewery presentation was held in April and their bitter is served on gravity there I am gold. Ex pub spotters will have noticed the cross keys sculptured in the frontage next door. Any place calling themselves bars/bistros or brassieres that did not sell real ale did not get into the East London & City Beer Guide, page 8 refers. Anyway I thought a brassiere was a ladies undergarment. But then again I thought the saying 'Head them up, move them out' had something to do with the T series Rawhide until I saw the advert for Wonderbra. Here is the rest of the news:

PROSPECT OF WHITBY: Range at May 96 was Courage Best (£2), Directors, Theakston Best and XB.

WHITE SWAN & CUCKOO: Range at May 96 was Ruddles Best and County, Courage Best, Websters Yorkshire Bitter plus a guest beer.

NEWS FROM YOUNG'S BREWERY

A brewery chairman has appealed to bosses in other industries to wake up to the benefits of a swift half at lunchtime for their employees.

Announcing a 6.6 per cent increase in trading profit in his company's annual results, John Young, chairman of Young's, said changes in people's drinking habits were having an adverse effect on the brewing industry and pub trade.

"We have had a good year in difficult trading circumstances but it would have been better had it not been all work and no play for an increasing number of people," he said.

"The British pub offers amazing value in both food and drink. It is the perfect place to relax, talk to friends and to recharge the batteries after a hard morning's work.

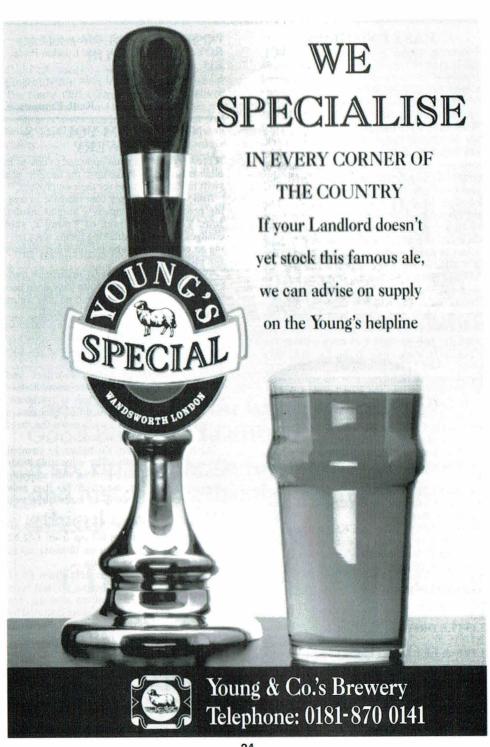

"Many companies, local authorities—and Government departments now prohibit their workers from going to the pub at lunchtime, but this is a shortsighted policy because a change of scenery and a walk down the street can do people a power of good.

"Companies would do better to combat stress in the workplace by educating their staff in sensible drinking rather than stopping drinking altogether, especially as it is now recognised that a drop of beer does you good."

Young's results for the 52 weeks to 30 March show trading profit up from £42.52 million to £43.47 million on turnover up to 2.6 per cent at £73.88 million.

Profit was down 1.5 per cent, from £5.31 million to £5.23 million before tax and from £3.62 million to £3.56 million after tax, but Mr Young said these figures were distorted by an unusually high profit on disposal of fixed assets last year – £901,751 compared with £251,435 in 1995-96.

"Without this huge drop in profit from the sale of property, which in no way reflects our trading performance, our profit before tax would have been up by almost 13 per cent," he said.

BUDWEISER BUDVAR - A TASTE OF HISTORY -

Brewed to an ABV of 5%, Budweiser Budvar is an all malt beer using carefully selected Moravian Pilsner malt, the finest Saaz hops, and soft water drawn from exclusive wells over 300m deep.

Downing an annual average of 162 litres per head, for every man, woman and child in the Republic, the Czechs are confirmed as the largest beer drinkers in the world.

Not content with just drinking a huge quantity of beer, the Czechs also like to read about it. Pivni Kuryr is the Czech beer drinkers magazine and is read by no less than 0.36% of the total population. In a recent consumer poll, regarded as the definitive Czech awards, Budweiser Budvar was voted "Beer of the Year" for 1995.

The name "Budweiser" actually originates from the small South Bohemian town of Ceské Budejovice, which, during the days of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, was known in German as Budweis.

In the fifteenth century Ceské was home to the Royal Court Brewery of Bohemia. Beers from the court brewery were hence known as the "Beer of Kings," whilst the town's brews became famous under the generic title of "Budweisers".

The history of Budvar begins with the founding of Ceské in 1265. However, there is strong evidence to suggest that beer was known in the region from as far back as the third century BC.

Unbeknown to carol singers everywhere, Good King Wenceslas I was a big beer fan. During his period as monarch (mid-thirteenth century) he lent great support to the Bohemian brewing industry.

With the second world war came German occupation. They were so taken with Budweiser Budvar that they tried to keep it from the rest of the world by halting export to everywhere except Italy, Yugoslavia, and of course the Reich.

Soon restrictions were imposed on the use of raw materials, which affected Budvar's taste and alcoholic strength. These made little difference to the beer loving Germans however, as the restrictions did not apply to them; they continued to enjoy unadulterated

Budweiser Budvar.

After liberation came communism and the closing of the Iron Curtain.

To a greater extent, the line taken by the communist government in Czechoslovakia was determined by the Soviet Union itself. So, in 1949, to keep the Red Might 'sweet', the brewery sent Stalin a special case of eighteen bottles of Budvar and six engraved glasses. In effect, this gift was the first postwar export to the USSR.

Heightened by the Cold War, Czechoslovakia disappeared from Western eyes for many years, and to some extent Budvar followed suit. Although it became available only in other socialist countries, and those countries which presented no political obstacles, its popularity continued to rise.

Budweiser Budvar witnessed many things in 1968: the Prague Spring; the invasion by a combined Red army, and the subsequent clamp-down of liberalism by the authorities. Unlikely as it may seem, Budvar continued to flourish, albeit to the detriment of the beer loving Czechs; until the end of the 1980s almost 75% of Budvar was exported, making it easier to find abroad than at home.

With the demise of the Communists in 1989, the Budweiser Budvar brewery began an uncompromising modernisation programme. Modernising to increase capacity, and uncompromising by rigorously adhering to traditional brewing methods.

The increase in capacity meant that the brewery was able to even out supplies to the home market. Budweiser Budvar became readily available to the Czechs themselves, whilst continuing to be the Czech Republic's best beer, Budweiser Budvar continues to be one of the world's great beers.

AN INTERESTING HAND OUT FROM THE BREWERS SOCIETY

Beer from France, where excise duty is one seventh the UK rate, if flooding into Britain at the rate of over 1.1 million pints a day.

This trade, because of the UK's beer duty regime is harming the British pub, forcing many to close and costing hundreds of jobs.

WEST MIDDLESEX NEWS

Two successive Fridays and two successive brewery trips - both in the branch area! How was this possible? Well, those of you who attended Beer on Broadway in April (our most successful beer festival yet) or read recent London Drinker magazines will know that a do-it-yourself brewing emporium has opened in Acton and that a local beer is now also commercially available in the area.

Firstly, without wanting to duplicate the previous feature too much, Mr. Bung's provide all the requisite materials and equipment you need to brew 80 pints of your favourite tipple -you just supply the labour! For £10, CAMRA members can join at nearly a quarter of the going rate for non-members and, in mid-May we were invited to indulge in an evening sampling session of some of the 200 plus beer recipes available. Although the regular brews are all malt extract and those on the night were bottle conditioned, the standards that can be attained were exemplary with at one end of the range milds, stouts and porters and at the other lagers and a Chimay style beer sampled along with various strengths and styles of bitters in between. Apparently, intending brewers are not tied to follow any particular recipe and may soon be able to batch just 40 pints with a swap facility for those who want their beers to gain wider acclaim (or opprobrium) or can't take the quantity without variety!

The following Friday evening saw local branch members invited to taste the first brew made at the new premises of Gerry Scanlon's brewery in Trout Road, Yiewsley. A new beer, Middlesex Gold will complement the existing Scanlon's Spike which will continue as a Rebellion Brewery product for the time being. Four different versions of Middlesex Gold were available. varying in hop type and rate, and imbibers were requested to make their preferences known. The consensus among those "aficionados" present was for an (admittedly mistakenly) doubly dry hopped version using New Zealand Hallertau hops but a brew hopped with Czech Styrian Goldings was considered a possibly more saleable product. The other two used Oregon Fuggles and American Cascades but these were somewhat overshadowed by their exceptionally more bitter and/or aromatic cousins! By the time you read this the final version should have been decided upon with some favoured free houses having sold some of these initial brews for further market research. Give this light, refreshing beer a try!

West Middlesex CAMRA wishes both Gerry Scanlon and Mr. Bung's all the success deserving of such enterprising concerns and hopes that these breweries fare better than the predominantly club trade oriented Union Brewery of Hayes from over a decade ago.

FULLERS PROFITS UP

Just as we were going to press, we received a copy of Fuller's preliminary accounts for the year to 30th March 1996. These show a healthy trading situation with pre-tax profits up by 21% on 1994/5 at £10.6 million. This was on a turnover of £91.4 million, up by 7% At present Fuller's shares are quoted on the Unlisted Securities Market (USM) which is a kind of second division of shares (or first division if you follow Association Football). The USM, however, will cease to operate at the end of the year and in the light of this the company have looked at their position and decided to go for a full listing.

CLOSURES

Regrettably the following breweries have closed

COMBE BREWERY. Mullacote Industrial Estate, Ilfracombe, Devon EX34 8PL. Tel: 01271 86402.

NIX WINCOTT BREWERY. Three Fyshes, Turvey. Closed temporarily, brewery will be moved and reopened at Priory Farm, Bedford Road, Turvey.

GLASCHU BREWERY. 250 Woodlands, Glasgow. Closed due to refusal of planning permission.

PLYMTON BREWERY (Carlsberg-Tetley Brewery), Plymouth. Closed. Dartmoor Bitter is now being brewed by St. Austell Brewery, Cornwall.

McINTOSH'S CROFTHEAD BREW-ERY Livingston, West Lothian. Closed December 1995.

JOLLY ROGER BREWERY. 31-33 Friar Street, Worcester, Hereford and Worcester WR1 2NA.

THE SCALE OF THE PROBLEM

Imports of beer (duty paid in France) in 1994 were 2,300,000 hectolitres.

This equates to more than 1.4 million barrels or over 404,00,000 pints.

This equivalent to four per cent of the British beer market (16.5 per cent of the takehome trade). The lost retail spend from duty paid imports on beer alone was £540 million in 1994.

The volume of cross channel beer is the equivalent of the annual sales of all the pubs in Kent and Sussex, or all of the pubs in West Yorkshire, or all the pubs in Tyne and Wear and Cleveland or all the pubs in the West Midlands.

Even marginal falls in beer sales can quickly push a pub into a loss.

MAGIC SELL OUT

Skimming through the financial pages of a newspaper (well, the Sun actually) at work I spotted a short piece about Michael Cannon who is set to make a personal £70 million. There was a picture of a (not surprisingly) smiling Mr. Cannon sitting astride (bet you can't guess...) a cannon.

The real item of news from this is that the Magic Pub Co. has been bought by Greene King for something in excess of £400 million. Mr. Cannon is the major shareholder in Magic and this has reportedly led to him earning the equivalent of about three rollover week jackpots in one go.

done by a different shopfitter. This is (maybe unfortunately) a fact of present day life; it's the same with Sainsbury's, Tesco's, Midland Banks etc etc. Once upon a time not so very long ago a French restaurant was, almost by definition, an individual establishment with its own proprietor and its own character, although working within a recognisable style of gingham check tablecloths and the like. Nowadays just about every town of any size has its Cafe Rouge.

I have no problem at all with new Wetherspoon (and similar) pubs all looking the same. The problem comes when perfectly good real traditional pubs are turned into "traditional pubs" by the likes of the Magic Pub Co by ripping out the carpets, hacking the plaster off the walls and smothering them with bric-a-brac and enamel adverts bought by the square yard and dusty books bought by the foot from some warehouse or other.

Concerning the Horse & Groom, I know a lady member of their quiz team who only enjoyed the away matches where she could drink something reasonable. And (joy of joys!) it's going to be turned into a Pizza Express. Now isn't that good news!

A SMUGGLERS CHARTER

In the pre-Christmas season, last year, around 57 vans, from as far afield as Inverness and Belfast were crossing the Channel each day.

In March about 150 vans full of beer were crossing the Channel every day, and during May there were 277 vans crossing daily, 64 per cent up on last year.

It is estimated that at least one-third of the beer coming in from France is brought in by smugglers and destined for illegal resale.

A survey of pub customers just before Christmas last year found that 34 per cent had been offered bootlegged beer.

HOLIDAY IN BRADFORD?

The Bradford branch of CAMRA have announced the itinerary (provisional) for the Real Ale Holiday in Yorkshire for 1996. Based in the New Beehive in Westgate Bradford, it starts on the evening of Thursday 18th July through to Tuesday 23rd. All transport on the holiday and accommodation is included in the £190. Trips to Keighley and Wakefield could be on the agenda as could the new Transperience Museum and a canal ride. A home-brew pub in Marsden, the Sair at Linthwaite (what a wonderful pub this is), Hornsea, Hull, Otley and Dacre Banks may also form part of the holiday. If you are fed up drinking the beer then walks through the cow pats have been arranged by Buffalo Lou Cody. The usual array of regulars of the holiday will no doubt be in attendance. See if you can spot the man from Gainsborough with his Hawaii shirts or the Rupert Bear trousers of east London. Or you can spend the time trying to spot a Yorkshireman with his hands in his pocket about to buy a round, tough one this. Local Des Ward will entertain with his impersonation of an East Ender and we may be in for a treat if wasp dancer Muir is in attendance. And if the beer does not get you the curries will! Even the advertising manager of London Drinker and his good lady wife have been on this one, what more recommendation does one need? Further information from Josie and Dave Boothroyd, 26 Summerbridge Drive, Eccleshill, Bradford BD10 0ER.
