CAMRA coined the term
'Real Ale' to describe beer brewed from traditional ingredients-malted barley hops and yeast-kept in casks which allow it to continue 'working' in the pub cellar and dispensed by any method that does not involve the beer being kept in contact with carbon dioxide.

Real Beer in London lists every known traditional draught ale outlet in the capital at the time of going to press—regardless of the quality of the beer or the pub.

Please note that although every attempt has been made to ensure that the information contained within this guide was as accurate as possible at the time of compilation, constant changes of pub management, closures, reconstruction together with a present weekly increase of 8-10 pubs installing real ale in the Greater London area, makes complete accuracy or comprehensiveness impossible.

How to use this Guide

Hours

The times shown after the area names are the normal Monday-to-Saturday hours. The letters F,S refer to extensions on Friday and Saturday. Opening hours on Sunday are normally 12 noon to 2 pm and 7 pm to 10.30 pm. Individual variations from the normal opening hours are shown after pubs' addresses.

Dispense

G by gravity — direct from the cask
H by handpump
E by electric pump

Pub facilities

Practically all pubs provide food of some description or other and many pubs, particularly outside of the City and West End can offer pub games, usually darts.

At the back of the book you will find a list of pubs or hotels which offer full restaurant facilities and those which offer accommodation.

Areas

The pubs are listed under postal districts or, outside the London postal area, under the names of the locality. The Greater London map on page 74 shows where each district is. At the back of the guide you will find a comprehensive set of maps showing the location of all pubs selling real ale in central London. This is preceded by a key map which shows the layout of central London and has, superimposed upon it, the areas covered by each of the following detailed street maps. Throughout the guide you will also find further maps, showing the location of pubs in areas where real ale pubs are plentiful.

The beer

An appreciation of the real ale scene in London as it exists today, together with background information on each of the brewers whose products are available in London, can be found at the front of the guide.

Introduction

One thousand five hundred pubs and beer from twenty eight brewers! Such a situation would have seemed like Utopia to anyone seeking out real ale in London in 1974. At that time only five hundred and fifty of London's six thousand pubs sold real ale and four hundred of these were controlled by the big six brewers who saw no future in real beer.

There seemed little sign of any improvement. Charrington who had some three hundred of the pubs continued taking out handpumps while Scottish and Newcastle were speedily retreating from the real ale market altogether. Only Youngs, the South West London independents with their firm commitment to traditional beer offered any hope. Fullers, the other independent, had handpumps in only seven of their hundred and ten pubs and were still unenthusiastic about increasing this number.

Yes, things have got a lot better, but while six national breweries still control 90% of London pubs, by sheer force of numbers they can still dictate the drinking habits of many. For years they dismissed real beer as a short-lived novelty and it was left to independent brewers to supply the growing number of free houses selling real ale. Only after seeing the popularity of pubs offering an alternative to the bland national brews did they begin to change their position. First Courage Directors, a much respected brew, which had all but been phased out was re-introduced. Then early in 1976 Watneys who had borne much of the brunt of CAMRA's early wrath introduced a cask-conditioned beer in London, their first in the area for decades. Ind Coope followed with Burton Ale, and Charringtons and Whitbread to some extent have started to re-introduce handpumps and cask-conditioned beer.

There is of course no reason to think that the 'real ale revolution' has come about because the brewers decided they were wrong to deny the drinker a choice; far more likely is that they were persuaded by commercial considerations. For it can be shown that the beers introduced to London since 1974 now cost on average 5-6p a pint more than those beers indigenous to the area. If the demand for real ale was to relax, then by their control of outlets, they would lose little by once again denying the drinker a choice.

CAMRA's short term objective of getting a choice of beers to everyone has begun well in the South East, and in London in particular, but outside this area the picture is quite different. Real ale seeps into the market here and there, usually selling very well, but many parts of the country don't get even that as they are completely dominated by one or two breweries who exploit their position and offer processed beers exclusively.

CAMRA's main objective is to see the brewing industry reorganised by a legislation that will prevent situations where a brewer can dictate drinking trends. Submissions have been made to the Monopolies Commission concerning some regional monopolies which exist but the wheels of bureaucracy take a long time to turn.

Some hope can be taken from the recent report of the Prices Commission which concluded that the large brewers are less efficient than the smaller ones and therefore do not operate in the public interest. Something which CAMRA has been saying for years!

Further benefit to the drinker could come from the implementation of parts of the recently published Food Standards Committee report on beer. They recommend regulations to control the composition, definition and labelling of beer so the drinker could know what he is buying before he pays for it.

CAMRA made submissions to all the committees mentioned above and is determined that their recommendations do not follow so many previous reports on the brewing industry which now lie gathering dust on some governmental shelf.

CAMRA is already well known to the relevant bodies and has a strong lobby in Parliament but if it is to have the influence to ensure that its objectives are achieved CAMRA must be seen to be strong, which is why it is so important that any silent sympathisers become active and join the Campaign.

Full membership costs £4 annually and includes twelve editions of 'Whats Brewing' - the Campaign's monthly newspaper which takes a broad and critical look at all sorts of developments in the world of beer and pubs, and keeps members closely informed.

What's brewing is sent free to all full members. Associate membership cost £1. Associate members receive one copy of 'Whats Brewing' and a card which allows holders to join local branches. Joint husband and wife membership costs £5 and entitles both to the same rights as a full member.

All memberships are available from Membership, CAMRA, 34 Alma Road, St. Albans, Herts, AL1 3BW Cheques should be made payable to 'Campaign for Real Ale Ltd'. Please allow three weeks for processing your application.

The Brewers

Note following the name is the original gravity of the brew eg Bitter (1035). The original gravity is a measure of fermentable material used for brewing the beer and gives an indication of strength and body. For example a beer of gravity 1052 will be heavier and stronger than our 1035 bitter and may also have a tendency to be sweeter.

---

ADNAM

Adnams & Co Ltd, Sole Bay Brewery, Southwold, Suffolk.

The availability of Adnams Southwold Ales is generally confined to an area close to the brewery on the east coast of Suffolk. However this distinctive and much sought after beer is now finding its way into the free trade, the Bitter (1036) being available in a few of London's free houses.

ARKELL

J Arkell & Sons Ltd, Kingsdown Brewery, Upper Stratton, Swindon.

Sixty four tied houses in and around Swindon but only a third of which sell unpressurised beer. Their expanding free trade has brought BBB (1038.2), Bitter (1033.2) and Kingsdown Ale (1060) into London where they are served traditionally in all outlets.

BASS

Bass Worthington Ltd, Burton-on-Trent.

A subsidiary of Bass Charrington.

Probably one of the best known beers in the country having been popular in the free trade for many years Bass (or Worthington E) (1044) can be found in several London free houses as well as many of the Charrington tied pubs, but beware of the keg version which is a different product.

Bottled Worthington White Shield (1051.4), one of only a few naturally conditioned bottled beers, is found in a large number of pubs and can often come to the rescue of the drinker surrounded by a wasteland of keg.

BRAKSPEAR

W H Brakspear & Son Ltd, Henley on Thames, Oxfordshire.

Founded in 1799 by the Brakspear family, the brewery in Henley on Thames still produces beer today that could well have been produced then. Their 130 pubs, practically all of which sell unpressurised beer, are found in the unspoilt countryside of the Thames valley. It is only recently that their beer has begun to travel the 36 miles into London where it is found to be deservedly popular in several free houses. Bitter (1035), Special Bitter (1043), XXX Mild (1031), XXXX Old (1043).

CHARRINGTON

Charrington & Co Ltd, Anchor Brewery, Mild End, London E1. A subsidiary of Bass Charrington.

---

The Brewers

---

Charrington have long been established in London, brewing having commenced at Mile End in the eighteenth century. In 1975 the brewery was closed down and the London trade is now supplied from Mitchell's & Butler's brewery at Cape Hill, Birmingham. Although Charrington supply some 1000 London pubs, Crown Bitter (1035.8) in its traditional form is now only available in a small handful of pubs. More commonly available is IPA (1038.9) which can be found in some 250 pubs scattered around London.

---

COURAGE

Courage (Eastern) Ltd, Anchor Brewhouse, Horselydown, London SE1.

A subsidiary of the Imperial Group.

Until recently pubs selling Courage beers traditionally were very thin on the ground in London, then two years ago the almost defunct Directors Bitter (1047) was re-introduced to several London pubs for a trial period. The success of that trial gave Directors a new lease of life and a permanent place in some London pubs.

In many cases the success of Directors led to publicans adding Best Bitter (1039) and Mild (1037.5) by traditional means.

Despite this improvement Courage beers sold without the use of gas pressure are found in only a fraction of their London outlets.

Also available is Imperial Russian Stout (1101.8), a naturally conditioned bottled beer sold in nips which carry a label denoting the year in which it was brewed.

ELDRIDGE POPE

Eldridge Pope & Co Ltd, The Dorchester Brewery, Dorchester, Dorset.

'Huntsman' ales can be found in 180 pubs in and around Dorset, but two thirds of these sell only pressurised beer. IPA (1041) and the popular Royal Oak (1048), two of the four draught beers brewed by the company, can be found in London as can the occasional bottle of Thomas Hardy Ale (1120). This is a naturally conditioned bottled beer said to be one of the strongest beers in the world.

EVERARD

Everards Brewery Ltd, Tiger Brewery, Burton-on-Trent.

The majority of this brewery's tied houses are to be found in the Leicester area, but most serve only pressurised beer. Old Original (1050), the company's only beer which is regularly served traditionally, can be found in one or two London outlets.

FELINFOEL

Felinfoel Brewery Co Ltd, Llanelli, Dyfed.

Felinfoel beers have been available in London for some time but only in canned form. (This brewery has the dubious distinction of having been the first to introduce canned beer back in 1935.) Double Dragon (1040) in its natural state can now be drunk in several London pubs without resort to a can opener.

---

The Brewers

---

---

GIBBS

Gibbs Mew and Co Ltd, Anchor Brewery, Salisbury.

The only traditional offering from the Wiltshire brewer is a barley wine, Bishops Tipple (1066).

GREENE KING

Greene King and Sons Ltd, Westgate Brewery, Bury St Edmunds, Suffolk.

One of the largest of the independent brewers, sporting a just reputation built on the quality of their draught beer. All too often now their beer is spoilt by pressurisation, a trend which unfortunately seems to be continuing.

Their beers can be found in almost a thousand pubs in an area covering Cambridgeshire and East Anglia and coming as far south as London's northern perimeter. There is only one tied house within London's boundary and this sells IPA (1035) and the powerful Abbot (1048).

GUINNESS

Arthur Guinness Son and Co Ltd, Park Royal Brewery, London NW10.

Bottled Guinness Extra Stout (1044 in Winter, 1042 in Summer) is probably the most widely available naturally conditioned beer in the country. It is brewed in Dublin and London but most of that sold in London comes from Park Royal. The product sold as 'draught' Guinness is all keg.

IND COOPE

Ind Coope Ltd, Romford, Essex. A subsidiary of Allied Breweries.

Traditionally dispensed Ind Coope beers were very difficult to find in London before the introduction of Burton Ale (1047.5) last year. This beer brewed at the company's Burton on Trent brewery was introduced into some 600 pubs in the South East, many of them in London, and all of them use hand pumps to dispense it. Since then several of these pubs have begun to sell the Romford brewed Bitter (1037) and Light Mild (1031) by traditional means, and the number of pubs selling Burton also continues to increase.

FULLER

Fuller Smith and Turner Ltd, Griffin Brewery, Chiswick, London W4.

The popularity of Fullers, one of only two independents still operating in London, has necessitated a vast rebuilding programme to cope with the demand for their beer in both tied and free trade.

Four beers are brewed at the West

The Brewers

---

London brewery but one of them, the bitter, is brewery conditioned and filtered before being supplied to the trade. The three cask conditioned beers are a dark mild known as Hock (1031.5), London Pride (1041.75) and ESB (1055.75), the strongest draught bitter in the country which should be treated with respect.

Over the past three years the number of Fullers pubs serving their beers traditionally has increased steadily but still account for only a quarter of the 111 tied houses. Beware, many of the others carry a 'Fullers traditional draught beers sold here' plaque outside their doors but inside the beer is served by a pressurised dispensing system.

KING AND BARNES

King and Barnes Ltd, Horsham, Sussex.

Most of the 158 tied houses can be found in West Sussex. The Bitter (1034.9) is sent the thirty or so miles into London where it is sold in only one free house.

MARSTON

Marston Thompson and Evershed Ltd, Burton on Trent, Staffordshire.

Marstons trade over a wide area of the country, their tied houses being found in Staffordshire and the surrounding counties and spreading out to Hampshire and North Wales. Five draught beers are produced and these are served traditionally in five hundred of their six hundred pubs. One of these beers is Pedigree (1043) which is available in the company's one London outlet.

McMULLEN

McMullen and Sons Ltd, Old Cross, Hertford.

Most 'Mac's' houses are found within thirty miles of brewery, an area which takes in part of North London at its southern extremity. Several of their pubs are found in this part of London but, as with the remainder of their 170 tied houses, fewer than half sell unpressurised ale.

Two draught beers are brewed, Country Bitter (1046) and AK Mild (1033), both of which are sent to the London pubs.

MORLAND

Morland and Co Ltd, Abingdon, Oxfordshire.

Morland's brewery was established at Abingdon in the early eighteenth century and now serves over two hundred pubs in the area, but more than two thirds of the beer is pressurised.

The Bitter (1042) is sold in one London free house.

RAYMENT

Rayment and Co Ltd, Furneux Pelham, Hertfordshire.

A subsidiary of Greene King.

---

---

The Brewers

---

Most of this brewery's output goes to the free trade which includes several London clubs although most serve only pressurised ale. The Bitter (1036) is served without pressure in one London free house.

---

RUDDLE

G Ruddle and Co Ltd, Oakham, Leicestershire.

A small brewery in the heart of the country near Oakham with fewer than forty tied houses, most selling real beer and within twenty miles of the brewery. In recent years the free trade side of the business has blossomed and now forms the major part of the output. Many London free houses sell Ruddles beers which include Bitter (or Blue) (1032) and the revered County (1050).

SHEPHERD NEAME

Shepherd Neame Ltd, Court Street, Faversham, Kent.

Most of the company's tied houses are in the East Kent area, but they have recently acquired several pubs in the London area making their total tied trade well over two hundred pubs, most of which serve real ale. All four of their draught beers, Best Bitter (1039), Bitter (1036), Mild (1031) and Old or Stock (1037) are sold in their London pubs.

There is also a thriving free trade, much of which is to clubs, but does include several London free houses.

SAMUEL SMITH

Samuel Smith Old Brewery (Tadcaster) Ltd, Yorkshire

Tadcaster is situated in North Yorkshire, an area in which the company have many of their three hundred tied houses, the majority of which sell unpressurised ale. There is also a flourishing free trade which now includes London where the Old Brewery Bitter (OBB) (1039.9) is to be found in an increasing number of free houses.

THEAKSTON

T & R Theakston Ltd, Masham, Ripon, Yorkshire.

Theakstons have only seven tied houses situated near the brewery on the edge of the Yorkshire Dales.

They are probably best known for their Old Peculier (1060.3), a dark old ale, which along with the Bitter (1038.5) can be found in London outlets.

The bitter is brewed at the formerly state-owned Carlisle brewery which was purchased to supplement their production to cope with the expanding free trade of recent years.

WATNEY

Watney Mann & Truman Holdings Ltd, 91, Brick Lane, London E1. A subsidiary of Grand Metropolitan Ltd.

Until recently Watney pubs offered no cheer to the London real beer

---

The Brewers

drinker as all their London pubs were supplied from the giant Mortlake brewery which produces only pasteurised beers.

Several hundred of their London pubs now sell Fined Bitter (1044) which is a cask conditioned beer usually served by electric pumps. This Norwich brewed beer was first introduced as an experiment in the London area towards the end of 1975. Distribution to London has since steadily increased and has also spread to cover other areas in the South East.

WHITBREAD

Whitbread & Co Ltd, The Brewery, Chiswell Street, London EC1Y 4SD.

The closure of the Chiswell Street brewery in 1975 threatened the future of cask conditioned Whitbread beers in London as all their London pubs were to have been served from the bright beer only brewery at Luton. Some of their pubs did manage to retain their hand pumps and are now supplied from the former Wethered brewery at Marlow, Buckinghamshire. An increasing number of the London pubs are now selling the Marlow Bitter (1035.4) but the number is still only small in proportion to their total outlets. Some ex-Wethered pubs in the west of London also offer Special (1038.2) which is also brewed in Marlow.

---

YOUNG

Young and Co's Brewery, Ram

Brewery, Wandsworth, London, SW18.

The larger of the two London independents, with a philosophy which seems to be against change for the sake of change. This is particularly true in the case of their beer where the company have stuck steadfastly to producing and serving good quality traditional beer.

Horses and drays are used for deliveries to the third of the tied houses which lie within three miles of the brewery and the brewery itself retains two old beam engines to supply much of its power; these like the horses are retained not for sentimental reasons but because of their efficiency.

Many of the pubs are outstanding examples of Victorian architecture, but, as if to show that they are not totally dependant on the past, some of their newer pubs stand as fine examples of modern pub building.

The brewery itself has undergone a lot of change recently, necessitated by expansion to cater for the increased demand for their beer. One thing you can be sure of in almost any Young's pub is that it will be popular, attracting custom not by gimmicks, but by good quality beer.

All 135 pubs, most of which are in Greater London, serve real beer of which the brewery have four brews, Mild (Best Malt Ale) (1030), Bitter (Ordinary) (1036), Special Bitter (1046) and Winter Warmer (1055) which is available from November to March.

GOOD BEER GUIDE 1977

Now there are some 25,000 pubs in the country serving real ale. (Even the notorious 'beer deserts' of Norfolk and Northamptonshire, now have a healthy sprinkling of pubs that offer solace from the fizzy offerings of the big brewing moguls).

The 1977 GBG has 4,700 pubs — the cream of the cream. Next year's will probably have about the same number. If we listed many more, you would have to hire your own fork-lift truck to carry the Guide around with you.

The Guide will tell you how beer is brewed — and how it should not be brewed. It will tell you how the big brewers grew to their present size and how the small brewers stayed small and beautiful. It will list every known real ale brewer in the country and will tell you the strength of their brews.

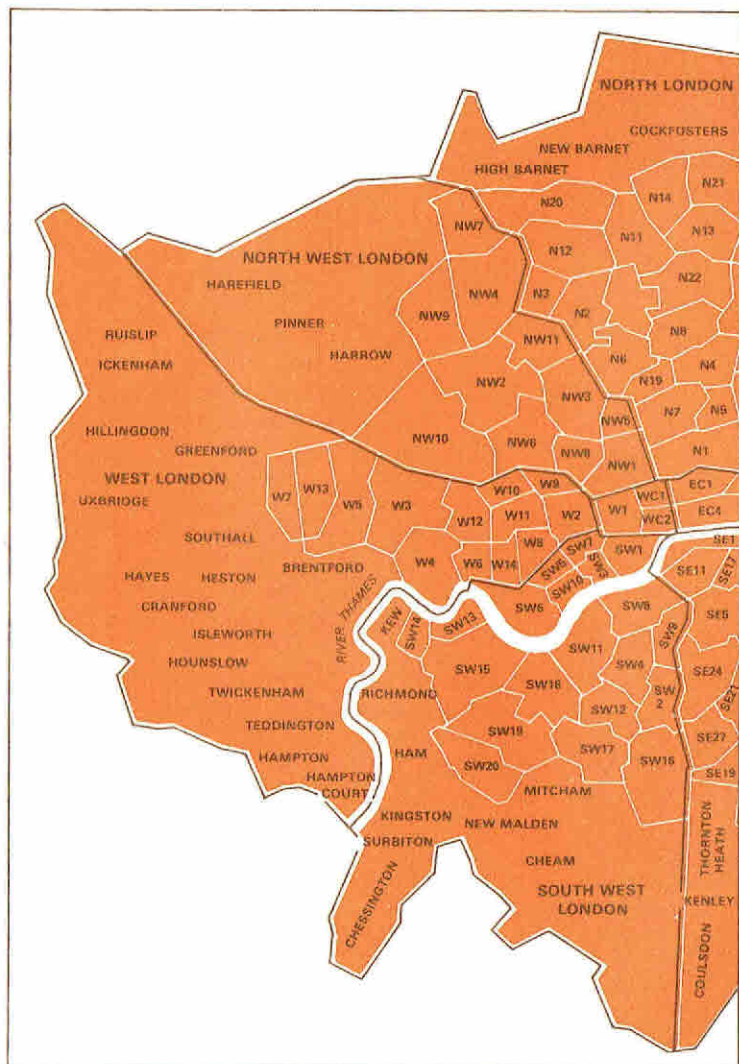

But its most important role is to act as a compass that will point you in the direction of good beer and good cheer in the thousands of hostelrys that still revel in serving beer that can be dark or light, strong or mild, sweet or bitter but is all the best of British beer.

CAMRA members can buy the 1977 guide for £1.40, including postage and packing, a 20p discount on the cover price.

A hardback issue for CAMRA members costs £3.

What's brewing?

Behind this label, a Guinness is slowly taking shape. It'll take 21 days for those natural hops, barley and malt to reach perfection. During which time nothing will be added. Nothing will be taken away. And the actual secret of brewing Guinness? We'll keep that under our cap.
